The P. C. Editor Says:

It is up to you whether or not the farm-to-market roads are extended and the maintenance of highways now built are kept up, the interest on bonds paid, the bonds paid off when they fall due. The only way this can be done is to vote for Constitutional Amendment No. 6 which guarantees a road program for the next ten years without a direct tax. If this fails then the next session of the Legislature may pass a direct tax law to meet the deficit that might occur. In other states that have a much larger gas tax than has Missouri, with the lowest of the forty-eight states, we hear no complaint for those who pay the gas tax get the benefit of good roads every day in the year.

The editor and wife and Misses Vernetta and Sherie Jeanne Smith are leaving this morning for Jefferson City and Lake of the Ozarks.

It has come to us that one of the ladies taking a poll of the city approached one of the employees of the local postoffice and when he was asked about the political preference of her and his wife, was told in a not very gentlemanly manner that they "voted as they damned pleased."

Hon. Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State, Hon. Douglas Meng, editor of the Blue Book issued from the Secretary of State office, and Joe E. Ward, out of Jefferson City, were visitors in Sikeston Wednesday. We had the pleasure of a visit with the gentlemen while here.

The State of Arkansas came in for a spirited defense by an oil man at the recent party given by J. C. Nichols in honor of William Skelly and his company. In the matter of capital punishment, Arkansas, the defender said, was far ahead of other states in its humane dealing with criminals. "In Arkansas we don't use hanging, electrocution or gas. We just shoot the criminal's squirrel dog and allow the scoundrel to slowly starve to death."—Kansas City Star.

Hon. Ralph Hutchison, Republican nominee for Congress from this District, was in Sikeston Wednesday and paid The Standard office a visit. He is making a thorough canvass of the District and is making a good impression on the voters he meets.

Whatever be the outcome of the present disturbance in Europe there is going to be a time when Germany and Italy will have to be curbed and it might as well be now as later.

While visiting the sights in and about Sikeston don't overlook The Standard art gallery. It will cost nothing and is worth seeing.

Injures Head in Fall From Truck

Walter Purlew of the Vanduser community, who fell out of a cotton truck on his head Tuesday, was found to be suffering from a concussion of the brain and was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau, Wednesday night in the Ellice ambulance. He was treated here by Dr. H. B. Thogmorton.

Kirk McCoy Hardware Store Opens Friday

The Kirk McCoy Hardware Co. will open for business this Friday morning, Sept. 30, on North New Madrid by the Norton Shoe Store, featuring a complete line of hardware and paint. An entirely new stock of Lowe Bros. paint has been purchased. The Simmons line of hardware will be carried, and there will be a full line of plumbing supplies.

The interior of the building has been completely remodeled and the fixtures modernized. Special display racks will exhibit guns and tools. Special glass shelving will be used for the electrical equipment displays.

Kirk McCoy, nephew of George Kirk of this city, and the latter's son, George Leonard Kirk, will operate the store. Mr. McCoy, who lived in Columbia, has been associated with the Butane Gas Corp. here. George Leonard Kirk is a graduate of the University of Missouri.

Large Sale Barn to Open Saturday

Mammoth Plant of Sikeston Auction Co.
Finest in Missouri

One of the biggest and finest auction barns in the Middle West, complete with a 700-spectator sales pavilion, offices and even a cafe, will be opened to the public here this Saturday, Oct. 1.

It is the new plant of the Sikeston Auction Co., which with the Wagon Yard Auction Co. combined to erect the mammoth building at the west edge of Sikeston on Highway 60.

Workmen have been putting the finishing touches on the structure this week and at 10 a. m. Saturday the first big sale will begin.

THREE SALES WEEKLY

Sales will be held every Tuesday and Saturday, and on Oct. 13 horse and mule sales will begin, being held each Thursday. Horses must be shipped in from Wyoming and Montana, hence sale of these animals must begin a short time after the opening date.

The portion of the barn containing the stock pens—covered with a gigantic roof—is 75 feet wide and 345 feet long, and is one vast maze of pens and gates, all designed to speed up the process of herding and segregating stock.

Extending out from the stock section, toward the highway, is another section containing the sales pavilion, and in front of it the office and the cafe.

One half of the stock section will be used for horses and mules. On the other side are divisions for cattle, sheep and hogs. Behind the barn are six loading chutes, three on each side, where trucks may back up and unload or take on stock.

SALES PAVILION

There are three different entrances for patrons to the sales pavilion, 75 by 90 feet. The seats (Continued on Page 5)

Married to Kennett Man

Marie Wilson, Chief
Telephone Operator, Weds

Miss Marie Wilson, daughter of E. W. Wilson of St. Louis, formerly of Sikeston, and Clyde Ford of Kennett, were married Saturday evening at the Presbyterian manse in Kennett by the pastor of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hicks of Kennett witnessed the ceremony.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. J. W. Marshall and Miss Etta Wilson of this city. She is a graduate of the Sikeston High School class of 1934, following which she accepted a position with the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company, being chief operator at the local exchange at the time of her marriage. She was chief operator at the telephone exchange in Kennett for eleven months of last year.

Mr. Ford is a son of J. A. Ford of Kennett and was reared and educated in the schools there, having graduated from the high school in 1931. An entirely new school, the Teachers' College in Cape Girardeau. For the past several months he has been employed in the Department of Permanent Seat of Government at the State Capitol in Jefferson City, where the couple will establish their home.

Drainage District Gets $20,000 RFC Loan

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has approved an additional loan of $20,000 to Drainage District No. 38 of New Madrid County for use in rehabilitating the ditches of the district. The work will be done in co-operation with the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp and will start on Ditch 4 as soon as possible. The camp will do the clearing from the Stoddard County line south to the Pole Road.

A WPA crew will clear south of this road, as it is outside the authorized work limits of the camp. A contract will be let for the drainage work, the contractor to furnish the machine and labor and supplies for two shifts and the widening of the ditch. District Engineer Felix M. Robbins says that as soon as this right-of-way is secured the job will be advertised and the contract let immediately so work can get well started before winter weather sets in.

FHA Points To Building Drive in City

Plans Winter Campaign
To Boost Repairs and Modernization By Owners

J. W. Kuhlman, district director of the Federal Housing Administration at St. Louis, announces that a representative of this office will visit Sikeston in the near future to assist in launching a "Ready for Winter" drive, stimulating fall and winter modernization and repair of all types of property under the National Housing Act.

Mr. Kuhlman stated the campaign will be linked with a state and nation-wide movement which is being sponsored by the building industry with the co-operation of the Federal Housing Administration.

REASONS FOR CAMPAIGN

Objectives of the drive are to encourage all kinds of improvements to property in order to increase fall and winter improvement and to furnish a lead-in to a continuing winter campaign of new construction and modernization.

"The FHA," said Mr. Kuhlman, "will co-operate with Sikeston property owners in this movement, first, through its insurance of loans which permit dealers, contractors and others to receive cash for goods and services; second, through aid in creating public acceptance of such a program by means of its educational activities with newspapers, radio broadcasting stations, motion pictures and by other media, such as posters, literature, exhibits, window displays and direct mailing to prospective borrowers and others."

IN CITIES OVER 5000

FHA representatives will visit all cities of 5000 or more population within the next few weeks, working with groups of building supply dealers, financial institutions, contractors, architects, realtors, department stores, manufacturers, utilities, radio stations and newspapers in local campaigns.

In each city visited, plans are to be completed for an extended advertising campaign of at least 60 days, involving all mediums, such as newspaper advertising, publicity, radio, outdoor and direct mail.

Meetings with civic organizations, such as Chamber of Commerce, real estate boards, trade organizations and dealer associations will also be held by the FHA representatives in cities visited. The district campaigning will be carried on under the supervision of C. P. Cauthorn, district production manager, according to Mr. Kuhlman.

Man Sues in Carnival Death

Claims Wife Killed
On Local Owner's Ride

Damages totaling $45,000 are asked in suits filed in Circuit Court at Osceola, Ark., against Jimmy McLaughlin of Sikeston, owner of a "tilt-a-whirl" carnival ride, following the alleged death last Saturday night of a woman on the device.

Hugh T. Dillihunt avers his 31-year-old wife was killed in a fall from the ride, claiming she was in a seat by him, slid under the protecting seat bar when the machine lurched suddenly and fell several feet to a platform. Death, which was instantaneous, was attributed to a broken neck and shoulders.

The trial has been set for the January term of Circuit Court, and McLaughlin was not required to post bond. Dillihunt seeks $15,000 for himself and similar sums for each of his children, Eva Jo, 4, and Hugh M. Dillihunt, 4 months old.

Imogene Ruth Albritton Engaged

Mrs. Ella Albritton of Sikeston announces the engagement of her daughter, Imogene Ruth, to Joseph John Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mayer of 216½ East High, Jefferson City. The wedding will take place on Sunday, October 15. Miss Albritton is employed with the State Highway Patrol headquarters at the State Capital, and Mr. Mayer is associated with the Mayer Hardware Company of Jefferson City.

Road Program Outlined at County Meeting

Large Gathering Hears
Points on Proposition 6
At Benton Courthouse

C. L. Harrison of Cape Girardeau, district chairman of the Citizens' Road Association, pointed out that despite the fact that Missouri is criss-crossed with primary highways and farm-to-market roads "there are still 250,000 families in the state not served by practical roads, roads passable the year round," in his talk Tuesday night before a county-wide gathering at the Benton courthouse.

A large crowd that nearly filled the Circuit Court room heard Mr. Harrison elaborate on Proposition 6—on which general election voters will pass on Nov. 8—and its benefit to Missouri, and especially to those in rural areas such as Scott County.

Not many years back, he declared, Missouri was known as the mudbound state, and tourists skirted it rather than risk its roads. Then, around 1921, in the time of John Malong, a road building program was begun that brought the state to its present status of 14,463 miles of primary highways—concrete or other hard surface, 16,000 miles of farm-to-market roads and 25,000 miles of surfaced roads in care of counties.

2-CENT TAX PLUS—

All of this was accomplished, he said, not only through the 2-cent gas tax revenue to the state, but also from federal funds which matched state money and from $135,000,000 in bonds voted at two separate intervals. With bond money nearly exhausted, there still remains $105,000,000 of this indebtedness to be paid off from future gas tax receipts.

Mr. Harrison told how the Citizens' Road Association, meeting in Jefferson City to consider the situation of future highway finances, developed after a careful and painstaking study the amendment known as Proposition 6, providing for a 3-cent gas tax and automobile license fees to remain the same for 10 years, and no diversion of funds to other than highway purposes.

While Missouri now has a beautiful highway system, it was explained, its total of 104,850 miles of dedicated roads are only about 16.4 per cent of the total road mileage. This means that countless thousands of people in rural communities live on roads of uncertain passability, at least part of the year.

RURAL PROGRAM

Prominent in the Road Association's program for the next 10 years, as incorporated in Proposition 6, is the plan to take over 5000 miles of rural roads over the state for surfacing and maintenance as farm-to-market roads. No farm-to-market roads in the counties will be determined by a formula considering the rural population (1930 census), value of farm products (1930 census) vehicle registration of 1937 and area. From this system is derived the proposed 46 additional miles in Scott County, one of 112 counties in the state to benefit. The 46 miles will be in addition to the 49 miles of supplementary highways already maintained by the State Highway Department. (Continued on Page 5)

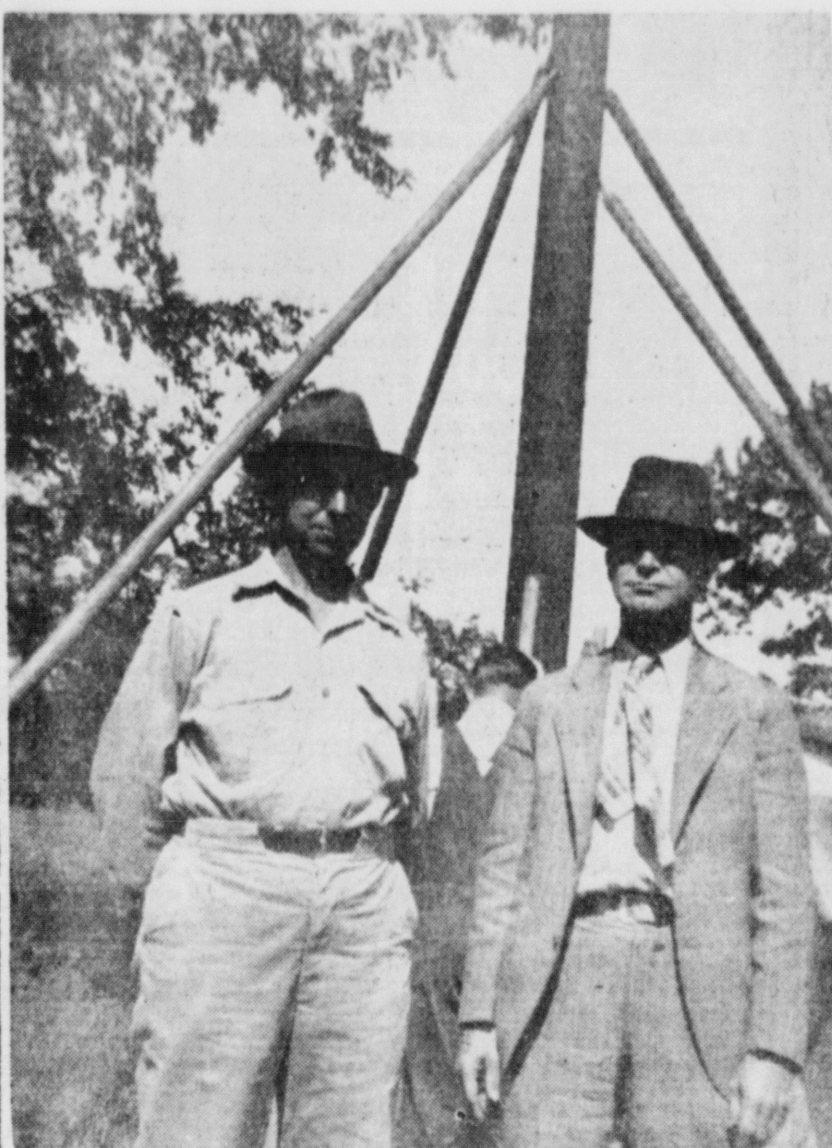

Democrats Sponsor Exposition Shows

The Democratic Club will sponsor the Greater Exposition Shows all next week on the show lot at Tanner Street and Highway 61. This show is one of the oldest shows on the road, having been organized in 1914 and has played in practically every state in the Union, the entire time being under the same management.

Although sensational free acts are carried, there will be no admission charge at the gate and the management guarantees shows and rides to please each and everyone. One of the featured shows is the "Wall of Death," featuring Dare Devil Marian Perry and her racing African lions. Another attraction is Walter Jaap's "Law and Outlaw" attraction. Captain Jaap has a ten thousand dollar collection of wax images of many of the most prominent criminals. The lecture given by the Captain is worth hearing as he is a former Oklahoma and Texas Sheriff and knew most of the criminals personally.

Among other shows are "Paris Before Dawn," "Giggle Alley" and others too numerous to mention. All of the new riding devices are on the midway and everyone is promised an evening of fun and thrills when they visit the Greater Exposition shows.

THE POWERS BEHIND THE POLES

Standing before the first pole set near Sikeston for the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi County Co-operative Association are the powers behind the poles of the 171-mile project, Alvin G. Gasser of near Sikeston, on the left, who is secretary of the association, and H. M. Zarico, project superintendent. These two men, and several other farmers in the vicinity, developed the project from its infancy into one that is humming merrily along now with several miles of poles being placed daily.

Big Tent to Show Exhibits

Merchants' Displays and Entertainment Featured

A mammoth double tent in the Junior Chamber of Commerce Park by the Missouri Pacific depot was erected Wednesday to accommodate the exhibits of Sikeston merchants in the Fall Jubilee and to provide entertainment to the spectators.

One entering the "big top" from the east side, on New Madrid Street, finds himself looking down a long double aisle, on either side of which are gaily decorated booths, displaying the latest wares, productions, inventions and styles of Sikeston merchants and other commercial enterprises.

Booths line either side of the main tent for the full distance, and in the center is an "island" of more booths.

At the west end of the big tent is a covered passage-way into the inner tent. In here is a large platform for the special entertainment and programs designed to attract visitors to the city.

Across in the Legion park, a large platform with a trellis background, facing Front Street, has been erected. On this stage will take place the crowning of the queen.

Services Held for Vanduser Woman

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon, and burial with Welsh service was in Carpenter Cemetery for Miss Patsy Chasteen, 20 years old, who died in a Cape Girardeau hospital Sunday night of complications. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chasteen, who live three-fourths of a mile south of Vanduser, and was engaged in the nursing profession. She was born January 26, 1918, in Oklahoma.

Forgery Charged

A hearing was set for 2:30 p. m. Thursday for Elmer Pettis, 19, who was arrested by Sergeant White of the State Patrol in Flat River Wednesday on a forgery warrant issued at Sikeston.

Pettis allegedly passed eight checks here totaling $45.80, one on a tire shop for $17.38, all of which were allegedly worthless. Deputy Sheriff returned Pettis to Sikeston Thursday for the hearing before Justice Brown Jewell. Pettis, who was released from the state reformatory in July, was at Flat River with his father.

Ask $82,500 From Wreck

Sikeston Man, Friend
Sue Arkansas Utility

Two suits asking $82,500 from the Arkansas Power & Light Co. were filed by Leon Jolly of Sikeston and Booth Carroll of Success, Ark., in the Randolph County Circuit Court in Arkansas and transferred to the District Federal Court at Jonesboro.

Mr. Jolly, proprietor of the Arcade Pool Room on North Kingshighway, and Mr. Carroll contended in the petitions that a service truck of the Utilities Company was driving on the wrong side of the highway, in a fog, with its lights out on Highway 67 near Corning, Ark., on the night of Dec. 15, 1937, when it crashed into a V-8 driven by Mr. Jolly and occupied by Mr. Carroll. Mr. Jolly at that time lived at Success, near Corning.

In charging the truck driven with negligence, the Sikeston man alleges he suffered in the wreck a concussion of the brain, a severe traumatic shock, bruises and cuts about the head and body, fracture of the second vertebra and paralysis of the right side of his head, for which he asks for $65,550. He said he spent many weeks in hospitals at Corning and at Memphis, Tenn., and took X-ray treatment at Little Rock. Mr. Carroll asks for $16,950 for his injuries.

Mr. Jolly came to Sikeston and opened the pool room two months ago.

Fire Prevention Week Begins Oct. 9

Sikeston insurance agents are calling attention to National Fire Prevention Week, beginning Oct. 9, as proclaimed by President Roosevelt who urges "upon all people of the nation that they co-operate in the movement to emphasize the disastrous consequences of preventable fires to the end that more effective precautionary measures may be taken to eliminate fire hazards and thus safeguard human life and prevent the needless waste of property."

The fire waste of the continent of North America is the greatest in the world. Last year the value of property burned was near $260,000,000, and the reports of monthly losses this year are running higher than 1937.

Reports received by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce show that dwelling house fires have been steadily increasing, while blazes in most other occupancies have declined. It is further estimated that around 7000 of the 10,000 annual fire fatalities in the United States occur in dwelling houses and that a large number of these are women and children.

More Paving Plans Laid Before Council

Aldermen Invite Any
Objectors of Resurfacing
To Meeting Next Week

Paving again occupied the majority of the City Council's time in its special meeting Tuesday night. The aldermen authorized the paving of Harris Avenue from North New Madrid to Cleveland, the paving of two blocks on Ruth from School to Delmar, the paving of a block on Kathleen from Prairie to Warner, and the paving of College from Park to Ranney.

OBJECTORS INVITED

Property owners on the following streets are invited to the Council meeting next Monday if they have objections to resurfacing the streets:

Maplewood from Kingshighway to New; Property from the Frisco tracks to School Street; School street from Prosperity to Malone; North Stoddard from Malone to North Street; North Scott from Malone to North Street, and the widening and resurfacing of Center Street from Kingshighway to Moore.

Objectors are also invited at a hearing on completing the surfacing between the present paving and the curb and gutter on Johnson Street (Highway 61) from Gladys to Tanner, on Tanner from Johnson to Kingshighway, and on Kingshighway one block from College to Wakefield.

The ordinance for resurfacing and widening Center Street was read twice and will undergo its final reading at the next meeting.

CHANGE STREET NAMES

The city attorney was authorized to draw up an ordinance changing the name of Shelby to Kathleen and the name of Kendall to Kathleen. Shelby and Kendall, with short interruptions, are continuations of Kathleen on the west.

An ordinance was passed dividing the city into convenient districts for "sprinkling, oiling, repaving, surfacing and resurfacing of streets." Malone and Kingshighway divides the city into four sections, the northeast of which is No. 1, northwest No. 2, southwest No. 3 and southeast No. 4.

The ordinance forbidding rent shows in the city limits, read twice at the Sept. 6 meeting, was given its final reading and passed.

ARCHITECT PAID

A special committee named to confer with J. L. Sutterfield regarding fees for architect's and other services on the airport, golf course and playground project reported a payment of $500 in cash was agreed on and that the architect was to continue supervision of the clubhouse project. The agreement was accepted by the Council.

Miss Audrey Chaney of the Social Security office asked for room to distribute commodities to the needy. Aldermen decided an effort would be made to obtain the warehouse at the rear of the Odd Fellows building.

Adam Roush asked the Council for sanitary storm sewers on Taylor.

Cotton Ginning Runs Behind Last Year's

Early season pickings in the cotton fields of Scott County are running behind those of last year, it is indicated from the U. S. Department of Commerce Bureau of Census report by Special Agent T. E. Stallings of Sikeston.

The report shows 937 bales of cotton were ginned in the county prior to Sept. 16, as compared with 1187 bales for the same period in 1937. The figures were just released. Last year's production was one of the heaviest on record.

Grade School Pupils Are Rearranged

Because of the difficulties of creating a map with any boundary dividing the schools, the Board of Education solved the problem of overcrowding at Bailey School by designating all sixth grade pupils living south of the Missouri Pacific tracks to go to the South Grade School, beginning the past Monday. This applied in a large extent to pupils living east of the Shoe Factory and selection of the older pupils was made because of the longer walk involved. All pupils from grades one to six, inclusive, living south of the Missouri Pacific tracks and west of Highway 61 are in the territory of the South Grade Schools.

WPA to Build New Warehouse At Sikeston

City to Lease Site
And Use It Jointly
As Maintenance Shed

An important step toward the construction of a new WPA warehouse here, to serve this area, was made at a special meeting Tuesday night of the City Council, which authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign a lease with the Frisco Railroad for the site of the structure.

The lease will be for a minimum of 20 years.

C. L. Blanton, Jr., of the WPA said the warehouse would be located on the Frisco right-of-way at Murray Lane. Access to the building by vehicles will be made from William Street.

He said materials for the building have been requisitioned from WPA headquarters and as soon as they arrive construction will commence.

The Frisco has already built a spur siding to serve the warehouse.

The building will serve as a storage place for all WPA materials in 11 surrounding counties—Carter, Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Mississippi, Scott, Stoddard, Butler, Ripley, Dunklin, Pemiscot and New Madrid. It will also serve as a maintenance shed for city equipment, and, it is understood, it will become city property if and when the WPA has no further use for it.

To begin with, Mr. Blanton said, one building 40 by 70 feet will be constructed. It will have an office 20 by 20 feet in one corner. Later, as activity demands, another structure the same size will be constructed 30 feet away. Next, a large room will be placed over the arway between the buildings and, if more room is needed, the space under the roof will be closed off and a third room, uniting the other two, created. In the end would be a three-room building 70 by 110. Many months might accrue before the entire building is erected.

The WPA warehouse that serves this area, once located here, was transferred to Poplar Bluff nearly two years ago.

In this general WPA district, two more warehouses will be built, at Farmington and at St. James, north of Rolla.

Cape Corps To Drill Here

Golden Troopers Will Maneuver Friday Night

Missouri's Golden Troopers, the drum and bugle corps of Cape Girardeau's Louis K. Juden Post No. 63 of the American Legion, will give a 15-minute drill on the Sikeston foot ball field on Friday evening, Sept. 30, at 8 o'clock to help start the Southeast Missouri Fall Jubilee.

This drill won for them the 1938 state championship and the corps voted unanimously to appear in Sikeston for this drill as a tribute to the loyal Sikeston members. These members are Clarence Cummins and Dr. C. W. Limbaugh, buglers; Tom Roberts and Loomis Mayfield, drummers and Sam Wilcox, drill master. The corps realizes it was the help of these Sikeston men that again made them state champions.

This is the first year for all but Mr. Cummins who was with the corps in '37 when it won the state championship at St. Joseph and then participated in the national convention in New York. With the addition of the two drummers and one bugler and the drilling under the watchful eye of Sam Wilcox, they again were champions in 1938 in Cape Girardeau. This made the fifth time that the Corps has been state champions as they were champions in '33, '34, '35, '37 and '38.

The corps, composed of 40 men, appears on the field as it has been doing since its organization, in 1928 led by their drum major, Dr. Jean H. Ruff. It has contested in every state convention from 1928 represents a cross section of the Legion.

The Golden Troopers will march on the field led by an osteopathic physician with a membership including alternates and color guard of four postoffice employees, four shoe workers, two bookkeepers, two grocers, a furniture dealer, two salesmen, four men connected with the automotive industry, two lumbermen, a clothier, a real estate man, a utilities man, a brick manufacturer, a photographer, a jeweler, a city clerk, two dentists two policemen, a banker, a barber,

FROM THE COUNTY AGRI. AGENT

In producing eggs in the fall and winter months we are asking the hen to lay out of season. D. D. Moyer of the Agriculture Extension Service, pointed out at a poultry meeting last week on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hooker, west of Oran. Since we ask the hen to lay out of season we should give her a comfortable home and plenty to eat. Mr. Moyer continued.

Although our winters are not so severe in this section, warm, dry, clean quarters should be provided for the laying flock. However, they should not be shut up too tightly as plenty of ventilation is important. If the walls of a poultry house are damp there is not enough ventilation. Hens should be protected from drafts.

Proper feeding is absolutely necessary for most economical egg production. A laying mash consisting of:

200 lbs. ground yellow corn
300 lbs. ground wheat
65 lbs. ground alfalfa
150 lbs. meat scrap

will give excellent results when self fed in convenient feeders and 10 to 15 pounds of scratch grain per 100 birds each day.

Those who attended the meeting were very much interested in Mrs. Hooker's fine flock of pullets. These were raised in accordance with the recommendations of the Missouri College of Agriculture. Since Mrs. Hooker could not provide clean ground for her pullets, she used a sun shelter with a wire floor. They have never set foot on the ground. Mrs. Hooker says this is the finest bunch of pullets she has raised for many years. They started laying when they were four months and one week old.

FARM BUREAU APPROVES GROUP HOSPITALIZATION

At a meeting in Benton, Monday night, Sept. 26, the Executive Board of the Scott County Farm Bureau voted its approval of the Group Hospitalization Plan being offered by the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation. A campaign for membership in Group Hospitalization will be started in the near future.

This campaign is to be conducted by a committee which will be appointed by Carl O. Luper, President of the local Farm Bureau, and will consist of one member in each township.

Group Hospitalization offers the following things to its members: Twenty-one days hospital care each year in a two bed room (not a ward), meals and special diets, general nursing care, use of operating room, surgical dressings, routine laboratory service, maternity cases with nursery care after 10 months membership.

All persons under 65 years of age who are Farm Bureau members are eligible. No medical examination is required for membership.

The cost for this service is $2.25 per quarter for members. This first dependent may secure the service for $1.50 per quarter, and all additional dependents under 18 years 75 cents per quarter (not each).

In order to start Group Hospitalization it is necessary for 20 per cent of Farm Bureau members in the county to join. An enrollment period of three weeks is allowed to secure this twenty per cent membership. After the enrollment dates close additional members cannot be added for six months. New members may enroll each 6 months thereafter.

Determination of when a person shall go to the hospital and when he or she shall be discharged rests with the member's doctor. Services which are not included in Group Hospitalization are: fees of physician or surgeon, fees of anesthetist, and fees of special or private nurses.

TO PLANT WHEAT AND BARLEY ON CONTOUR

Theon Grojean of New Hamburg is planting his wheat and barley on the contour this fall in an effort to reduce soil and water losses by erosion.

Assistant County Agent, James Meyers and John Fallon of the Missouri College of Agriculture visited the Grojean farm last week and established guide lines on three fields that are to be sown to small grain this fall. These lines are established on the level and hence run across the slope of the field. Mr. Grojean will follow these lines when drilling his small grain. Each row will then form a small barrier to retard the runoff of water and catch soil that would otherwise be washed away.

Guide lines will be established on a fourth field in a few days. This will be done before the land is plowed. Blowing, as well as other tillage operations will be on the contour, or across the slope, to help prevent soil erosion and runoff of water.

Mr. Grojean would be glad to have anyone who would care to do so, inspect his contour operations.

Morehouse News

Mrs. Lucy Hunt of Chandler, Ind. visited her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Todd moved into their beautiful new home Saturday near the site where the New High School is to be erected.

Dr. C. H. Pease who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks is able to be up and out again.

Mrs. I. O. Busby, Mrs. Larry Busby and Mrs. Paul Cooper all of Dexter, visited the former sister, and the latter's aunt, Mrs. Howard Clodfelter Friday afternoon.

Elder Ernest Fink and family of Sikeston spent Sunday afternoon with Dr. C. H. Pease and wife.

The last of the seasons Baseball games was played here Sunday afternoon between Morehouse and Murphysboro, Ill. The game was 6 to 7 in favor of Murphysboro.

A Farewell Birthday Social was given Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Morris in honor of their daughter Mrs. Paul Sherrard's 28th birthday. A large crowd was present and Mrs. Sherrard the recipient of many beautiful presents. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all present. Mrs. Sherrard will soon join her husband in Chicago, he is with the U. S. Navy.

The Baptist Ladies S. S. class will have their monthly social at the home of Mrs. F. W. Sherrard with Mrs. Babe Couch as hostess on Thursday evening, Oct. 6.

Rev's. Hamilton and Hamilton will begin a revival at the church of the Nazarene in this City Monday night, Oct. 3. A welcome is extended to all to come.

Judges to Be Chosen in Farm Contest

Agricultural leaders in 175 counties in the Mid-South will begin choosing county Plant To Prosper Judging Committees this week in preparation for county contests in The Commercial Appeal's $2750 Plant To Prosper Competition.

Directors of the Plant To Prosper Bureau said last night that all extension agents in the Mid-South have been urged to complete their committees so that county judging may get underway during the week of Oct. 16.

$450 IN STATE PRIZES

County judging committees, which will be composed of outstanding agricultural and business leaders, will pick the winners in each county to represent their county in the state competition for state prizes totaling $450.

Joining with The Commercial Appeal and the extension agents, the County Committee and county newspaper editors will urge all Plant To Prosper contestants to complete their record book and turn them into the county agent not later than Saturday, Oct. 15.

County Committees will select from the 27,000 farm families participating in the contest 556 county winners, who will compete for state awards and for sweepstakes awards totaling $1000.

PAPERS WILL HELP

Letters will be mailed to all contestants this week by the Plant To Prosper Bureau urging them to complete their record books, and a series of articles on making out the record book will be published in The Commercial Appeal, beginning Wednesday and in the county newspapers next week.

Score cards will be mailed to County Committees as soon as the committees are chosen, the Plant To Prosper Bureau said. As announced at the beginning of the campaign, winners will be chosen on their work in living-at-home, diversification, soil conservation and home management and improvement.

Sixty per cent will be given for progress made this year and 40 per cent for previous improvements or progress.

URGE COMPLETE BOOK

Directors of the Plant To Prosper Bureau are urging all contestants to fill out every page of their Plant To Prosper Record book, so

Any Road Program Better Than No Program

There is one thing certain if Amendment No. 6 is not passed in November, and that is that there will be little or no improvement or extension of our state highway system in 1939, nor in future years unless the gas tax is increased or another bond issue voted.

The $75,000,000 bond issue voted ten years ago has been exhausted. Over 80 per cent of the estimated state highway fund in 1939 will go for interest and retirement of the bonds, maintenance of the highway system, administration and other fixed expenses. The amount left over for construction will not begin to meet the demands for more farm-to-market roads and for surfacing and improvement of many highways.

Amendment No. 6 is a constructive, balanced 10-year program, giving more roads to every county in the state. Surely it is better than no program at all.

that county judges will be able to tell minutely the progress made during the year.

As in the past, the committees will select the best record books presented and then visit the farms to determine the best possible representative for their county in each of the four divisions of the competition.

Divisions of the contest are land-owner division, farm operator, tenant or sharecropper and home improvement. County winners in each division will be the guests of The Commercial Appeal at the fifth annual Plant To Prosper dinner in Memphis Wednesday, Dec. 14. They also will receive The Commercial Appeal Certificate of Honor.

COUNTY DEADLINE SET

All county winners must be selected not later than Nov. 1, to be eligible for the cash awards.

Record books of county winners in Arkansas should be sent to Kenneth B. Roy, 524 Postoffice Building, Little Rock, Ark.; Tennessee winners to Judith Brooks, district agent, Jackson, Tenn.; Mississippi winners to L. I. Jones, State College, Miss.; and Missouri winners to C. C. Hearne, Columbia, Mo.

State Plant To Prosper winners will be selected as follows: Mississippi, week of Nov. 6; Arkansas, week of Nov. 14; Missouri, week of Nov. 21, and Tennessee, week of Nov. 28.

Sweepstakes winners will be announced at the Plant To Prosper dinner Dec. 14.

New Madrid CCC Camp Happenings

CCC SEINERS ARE SAVING FISH

A work crew of the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp is seining old borrow-pits in the lower end of the Birds Point-New Madrid spillway in co-operation with the Conservation Department of Missouri. Frank I. "Doc" Jones, district agent for the department, is directing the work and Foreman Harlan E. Lake has charge of the crew. Work started on Sept. 20 and will be completed next week. It is expected that 10,000 to 15,000 game fish will have been saved for fishermen in this area that otherwise would have been lost when the borrow-pits dry up this winter. The fish, which range in size from fingerling croppie to 3 1/2-pound black bass, are being placed in the Des Cyrie washout, northwest of New Madrid.

Captain Robert G. Johnston, Superintendent Fred R. Jacoby, and Engineer E. L. Miller, Jr., attended the monthly meeting of the Porterville Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, Sept. 22. In the name of the enrolled and supervisory members of the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp, Captain Johnston invited the chamber to hold its October meeting at the camp and to eat supper there as guests of the camp personnel. The invitation was accepted, and the date was set as Thursday evening, Oct. 27. Supper will be served the guests at 6:30 o'clock.

The educational program for the Winter Term at the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp has started off with an excellent list of about 35 courses offered to the enrollees of CCC Co. 3729 for improvement of their leisure time while members consider themselves so well-educated and well-informed that they do not need to take advantage of the opportunities offered to them; every other member of the company is enrolled in one or more of the courses. In addition, two members are attending the New Madrid High School and about 30 are taking correspondence courses from various institutions, some of high school level and some of college.

Classes regularly are held four nights of every week, Monday through Thursday. Every member of the supervisory staff, both Army and U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, assist in making the program a success. In addition, the WPA furnishes two teachers for the grade school subjects and several of the enrollees with special knowledge or ability do their share. The educational work of the camp is conducted by Educational Adviser Rufus Crews and an enrollee assistant, Assistant Educational Adviser Stacy Gearing, under the supervision of the company commander, Captain Robert G. Johnston.

Following are the instructors and the classes they teach: Superintendent Fred R. Jacoby, mechanical drawing, music; Engineer Henry G. Berghorn, surveying; Engineer E. L. Miller, Jr., drainage engineering, journalism; Foreman Omer A. Kemp, truck driving; Foreman Harlan E. Lake, radio servicing; Foreman J. V. Reilly, clerical work; Foreman Kermit A. Wallenmeyer, diesel engineering; Squad Foreman Cecil A. Westmoreland, concrete construction; Minor Assistant Technician Ervin T. Harris, algebra, solid geometry; Mechanic Everett L. Conley, Motor Mechanics; Dragline Operators James M. Cole and J. F. Thornburg, dragline operation; Captain Robert G. Johnston, leadership and citizenship, woodwork; Ensign George M. Christensen, radio communication; Educational Adviser Rufus Crews, high school courses; WPA Teacher Maxey, elementary courses; WPA Teacher Masterson, arithmetic, English, geography, penmanship, spelling; Leaders Perry and May, cooking, baking; Assistant Leader Gearing, typing; Assistant Leader Mullen, photography and Enrollee Barker, first aid.

Engineer Henry G. Berghorn of the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp has resigned his position with the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, to take effect Sept. 30, in order to accept a position

Successors to pioneers . . . both of them!

The early settlers' horse-drawn plows broke Missouri's soil and started the growth of farming, later of commerce, industry and transportation.

Then came those other pioneers who brought to Missouri the benefits of modern utility service—brought time-saving, work-saving, money-saving services that helped our state to grow and prosper.

Just as the first settlers had their struggles to establish themselves upon the soil, so, electric, gas and water service had their small beginnings. It took bold pioneering to open up the land, to build, to create towns, start rural stores, build churches and schools. It took the same kind of courage to chart power lines through the rugged

Missouri country, to create the valuable services of gas and water—in a word, to bring the conveniences of modern life to the people and industries of Missouri.

The pioneer trail-maker had the endless work of chopping his own wood, of pumping his water supply, of laboriously filling and cleaning old-fashioned lamps. But modern public utility services take these burdens off the shoulders of his descendants in hundreds upon hundreds of Missouri towns. This, too, is the work of pioneers—those pioneers who first saw the possibilities of lightening human toil and adding to human comfort. Their work, added to the trail-blazing of our earliest settlers, makes this Missouri that we know today. Neighbors in tradition, neighbors in progress!

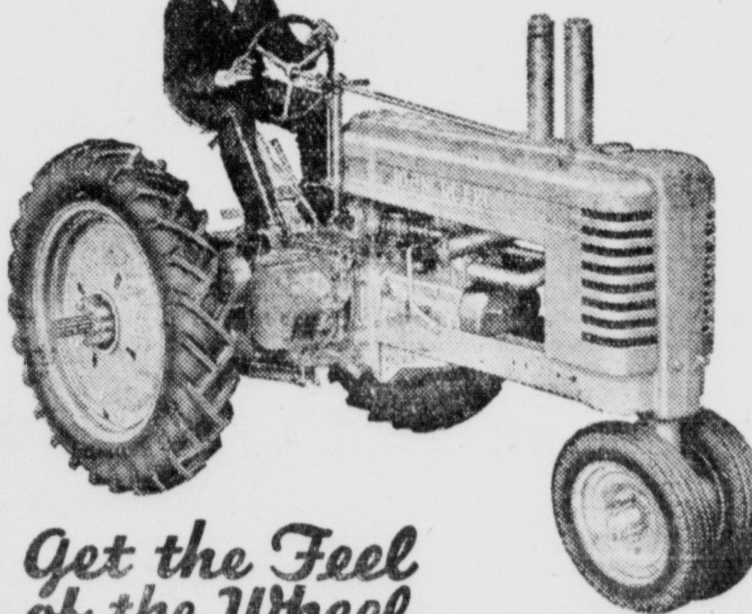

The low rates and varied services furnished by your Public Utilities . . . the Electric, Gas and Water Companies of Missouri . . . have been made possible through individual initiative and the investment of thousands of Missouri people.

Bond Sales Speed Drainage Work

Drainage District No. 39 of New Madrid County is now in position to speed up rehabilitation work on the ditches of the district, which are between Sikeston Ridge and Little River, through sale of its bonds.

The district owns its own dragline, and work is being done now on Big Otter Slough Ditch in cooperation with the New Madrid CCC Drainage Camp, which is furnishing the labor and supplies for one shift, is doing the clearing and is constructing water control structures.

Felix M. Robbins, District Engineer for District No. 39, reports that as soon as the bonds are sold, two additional shifts will be added to the dragline work in order to speed up the progress being made. Big Otter Slough not only is being cleaned-out but is being widened an additional fifteen feet.

It is hoped that after the week is completed up to the junction with Little Otter Ditch there will be no more disastrous flooding caused by the "bottle-neck" between this junction and Little River.

NAZARENE CHURCH

The Leadership Training Course of the Church of the Nazarene for all teachers and officers of Sunday School and other Christian workers began Wednesday night with the first chapter of the textbook, "A Study of the Pupil." Ten are enrolled to study the book. Three years ago 15 members finished the first four units and will join the class after the new group has completed the first two units of the revised edition.

The Young People's Society will hold a social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gray north of the city on the Salcedo road, Friday evening at 5:30 o'clock. There will be a spiritual program at this time.

Road Program

Mr. Harrison stated Scott County motorists in 10 years paid in $1,426,358 in gas tax and license fees, but in the same period the county received $2,199,012 back in road construction, including that from the federal government. Thus, for every dollar put into gas taxes in the county and into license fees the people received almost $2 worth of roads in return.

The association officer paid an outstanding tribute to the late C. D. Matthews, Jr., of Sikeston, terming him one of the greatest men ever to serve on the State Highway Commission and a man who had brought remarkable road progress to Southeast Missouri. The speaker also characterized Division 10 officials as ones who had co-operated with their surrounding citizens better than those of any other district in any state.

GASOLINE INEQUALITY

The inequality of gasoline prices, despite the fact that Missouri has the lowest tax in the Union, was brought out. "Perhaps the people of Missouri have been paying money as dividends to stockholders of big oil companies when it might have been going to roads," Mr. Harrison said. Some states with higher gas taxes have lower gasoline prices than Missouri, and in others the net price going to the producers after the tax is deducted is less than in this state.

As it now stands, it costs Missouri motorists $24.92 per year in gas taxes and license fees per vehicle to operate, ranking this state 46th in the United States. Under the program of Proposition 6, the cost per year would be $29.60, placing the state 44th in line.

"We've got to keep on building roads to cut down the accidents," Mr. Harrison stressed.

DIVISION OF FUNDS

Division of money under the new plan would be as follows: 50 per cent to highway primary and secondary systems to complete the proposed network, 20 per cent to cities over 2500 for the use of funds for highway routes in the cities, 20 per cent to farm-to-market roads, and 10 per cent for emergencies that might arise. Since even main highways lie chiefly in rural territory, 80 per cent of the funds collected will go to benefit rural areas, and at the same time the major cities contribute 75 per cent of the gas tax and license fees.

Dr. W. O. Finney of Chaffee, chairman of the Scott County Citizens' Road Association and who called the meeting, presided. He announced a district meeting to be held this Thursday, Sept. 29, at Dexter, beginning at 5 p. m. At this time plans for another Scott County meeting will be announced.

In a meeting held immediately following the talk, Mrs. Ed Kendall was chosen chairman of the women's division in Scott County.

Included in the audience from various parts of the county were: Blodgett—A. E. Davis, Roy F. Green, Ben F. Marshall, Brooks Brasher, Ike Marshall; Morley—Ranney McDonald, Tom Lett and Clarence Beardslee; Sikeston—C. L. Blanton, Sr., Jim Baker, C. C. SCOTT COUNTY
COTTON LOANS AVAILABLE

Loans on 1938 cotton are available to cotton growers cooperating with the 1938 cotton program, according to Evin Burke, Chairman, Scott County, A. C. A. Note and Loan agreements papers have been distributed to the various gins in Scott County.

Each producer who has received a white marketing card may secure a loan on cotton produced by them or which they receive for rent. The white marketing card will signify that the producer has planted within his farm allotment. Producers who have overplanted their cotton allotment may secure a loan on the cotton raised in excess of the marketing quota for the farm, but at a rate of 60% of the rate for a cooperator.

Loan rates range from $5.30 to $10.75 per hundred, depending upon the grade and staple of the cotton and as collateral.

for the 700 spectators extend the full width of the front section. In front of the stands is a large space for the stock being sold, and on the other side of this area, across from the stands, is a specially constructed booth for the auctioneer.

At the front of the building are the rest rooms, offices and the cafe.

The cafe is owned and managed by Frank Alexiou. A counter large enough for 15 customers' stools and several booths have been installed. Mr. Alexiou said he would feature first-class food and extended an invitation to townspeople, as well as to auction patrons, to visit the cafe.

CONSTRUCTION FACTS

Construction on the building started July 13, and during this time nine to 31 persons were employed each day, including carpenters and helpers. Into the making of the building went: 222,000 feet of lumber, three tons of nails, 400 squares of roofing, a carload of cement, 2600 feet of water pipe, 735 pairs of hinges, and a mile of electric wire. The place is electrically equipped throughout and will have a heating system for winter.

Dr. C. T. Old, veterinary, will have his offices in the building.

It is the finest sales barn in all Missouri and with the exception of the W. H. Bishop barns at Anna, Ill., it is believed to be the finest in five states.

R. A. McCord of Sikeston and Sherman McNew, formerly of Springfield, Mo., and auctioneer at the Wagon Yard, will be auctioneers at the new barn.

STOCK FOR OPENING

For the opening day sale the barn will feature 1000 head of cattle, including 200 registered white-face cattle and four purebred white-face bulls, and also 800 head of hogs.

There will be plenty of automobile parking space.

The auction company is incorporated up to $40,000, and stockholders are R. A. McCord, Harry Warren, Glenn Matthews, Fremont Goetz, Casper Taylor, Ed Cline, Paul Heckemeyer, J. F. Cox, Sam Potashnick, and Jean Hirschberg. Officers are: President and general manager, R. A. McCord; vice-president, Fremont Goetz; secretary-treasurer, Jean Hirschberg, the three of whom with J. F. Cox comprise the board of directors.

Jackson Set For Comeback Over Bulldogs

Indians, Fresh From Upset, Out for Blood; Sneathen Back to Team

It's a safe bet that the Jackson Indians will be roarin' for a scalp when "Peg" Mahew takes his Sikeston Bulldogs there Friday for the first Southeast Missouri conference clash of both teams.

After the stunning 6-0 upset at the hands of Chaffee last week, the Indians have only one recourse: to take it out on the next team that comes along. That team happens to be Sikeston High.

The loss by Jackson was the first for Coach Elmer Seefeld since he took over the coaching reins at the start of the 1937 season.

SNEATHEN BACK

Good news for Jackson but not so much for Sikeston is the announcement that Halfback Doug Sneathen, who played havoc with lines all last year, is back in the lineup. Sneathen was compelled to watch the Chaffee game from the sidelines because of a leg infection and his absence, without doubt, had much to do with the surprise setback.

Sneathen's leg was healed sufficiently, it is understood, for him to start against Sikeston. He and Nothdurft, a back almost as big as a two-story house, will take the initiative in the Indians' attack against Sikeston.

Coach Mahew and Coach Vernon Green have been reiterating the fundamentals of the game into the Bulldog squad this week, concentrating on some of the weaker points that showed up in the 25-0 victory over East Prairie. This score, incidentally, was much higher than the pre-game dopsters calculated. Forecasts were all the way from an East Prairie victory up to a Bulldog win by two touchdowns.

KICKING DEFENSE

However, first games' scores are misleading. And time will tell. To keep Jackson away from the goal line as much as possible,

Notice of Final Settlement

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned, Jesse T. Chapman, Administrator of the estate of G. W. Chapman, deceased, will make final settlement of his accounts with said estate as such Administrator at the next term of the Probate Court of Scott County, Missouri, to be held at Benton in said county, on the 9th day of November, A. RESOLUTION

A resolution declaring it necessary to pave, curb and gutter College Avenue from the west line of North Ranney Street to the East line of Park Avenue.

Be it resolved by the city council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows:

Section 1. That the City Council of the City of Sikeston deems and declares it necessary to pave, curb, and gutter College Avenue from the west line of North Ranney Street, to the east line of Park Avenue, all constituting a continuous improvement.

Section 2. The said improvement shall be made by removing the present earth or gravel roadway, and placing therein a six inch layer of concrete pavement. For a further and fuller description of the work to be done hereunder, reference is hereby made to plans, specifications and estimate of costs covering this work, adopted by the City Council by Ordinance No. 1425, and now on file with the City Clerk at the City Hall.

Section 3. That the cost of said paving, and engineering expense shall be done at the expense of the owners of property deriving benefit therefrom, because in the opinion and judgment of the City Council, the general revenue fund of the City is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for said work, engineering or any part thereof; and said paving, curbing, (if done,) be included in the estimate of the cost of the improvement of said street and the whole costs levied as a special assessment or tax against the property deriving benefit from said improvement, and that tax bills shall be issued therefor.

Section 4. That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish the Sikeston Standard, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published in Sikeston, Missouri, a copy of this resolution, so that it may be published and appear consecutively in the next two weekly publications, of said newspaper following the passage and adoption of this resolution.

Read first, second, and third times and passed and approved this 27th day of September, 1938. (SEAL)

Approved:
G. W. H. PRESNELL, Mayor.
Attest: A. C. BARRETT,
City Clerk.

Dillman & Co. Bankrupt Nick and Popalino

The muscle monopoly of Dillman & Warren put the bee on Nick Elitch and Tony Popalino, the other partner team, in Sikeston's first team wrestling event ever staged at the Legion arena Wednesday night.

After "Dynamite Joe" and Speedy had lost to the New York-Italy combination, the Greek and Chicagoan returned—despite pro-round huddles and plans by Nick and Tony—to win the next two falls. In separate matches afterward, Dillman pinned Elitch in eight minutes and Popalino floored Warren in 10 minutes.

The first two matches of the team contests went 10 minutes each and the last 12.

A 3-RING CIRCUS

Everything could—and did—happen in the team matches. It opened with the wrestlers cautiously surveying each other. Dillman went for Elitch and Tony started to go for Speedy, but Speedy hopped on Elitch's back, and so Tony attacked Dillman from the rear. There was a double toss-out, Dillman and Tony going out of the ropes. Here Dillman started a private feud and chased the Italian around outside but could not catch him.

Tony at times could not remember his partner, and neither could Joe. They had to be reminded. To end the first, Tony and Nick tossed Warren out of the ring, and they pinned Dillman with a reverse crab hold. Speedy then had to fight it out himself. The two on the other side licked their chops, whispered and grinned, and the massacre was on. They were flummied Speedy around something awful when Dillman, in fury, returned to the ring to aid Warren. Referee Rabban held Joe while Elitch-Popalino finished off Speedy. They each took and arm

Cach Mahew will have the Sikeston team rely considerably on kicking. This kicking has been one of the strong spots of this week's practice.

Jackson's passing play may operate more efficiently with Sneathen back in the line, so the Growlers have also given some worry to the art of stopping overhead plays.

The game this Friday will be at night, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Indians' newly dedicated stadium. Jackson for the first time has lights and it will be the first night game for the Bulldogs at Jackson.

Semo Loop Play Swings Into Action

All Teams in North and South Divisions to Battle Among Selves on Friday

Teams over Southeast Missouri get down to conference business on the gridiron this week end. In both brackets of the Semo loop all 12 teams will mix within their own divisions so that each contest will count toward the championship. Any games between teams on the circuit last week were between those of the North and South divisions and were therefore non-conference.

The biggest news since the Chaffee upset of Jackson Friday occurred off the playing field. It was the announcement Monday of Emory Peters of Poplar Bluff High that he was quitting the football coaching end of his duties there and would tour only in basketball and track sports. Torchy Godwin, star back of the Cape Teachers College last year, given honorable mention on the Little All-American and second highest scorer in the nation on the 1937 gridiron, was named to succeed Peters.

Peters' resignation came three days after a 20-0 defeat of Poplar Bluff by Caruthersville. He had been coach 15 years at the Bluff and guided the Mules to championships in 1926-27-28-29 and 1933. Just what Godwin can do in the little time this week to prepare the Mules for their clash Friday with Perryville is a matter of question. Perryville used every man in football togs last week in dropping Dexter, 20-8.

While Sikeston journeys to Jackson in another North Division clash, Charleston goes further north to Farmington for the Knights' first game. Charleston showed power, despite the loss of Captain Davidson, in dropping Cairo, 32-7. It will be Farmington's first tilt.

Senator Paul Jones

How many circuses, tent shows, carnivals and other forms of travelling amusement will show in or on the outskirts of Kennett during the course of a year? I cannot give the exact number, but can answer the question in two words—"Too many."

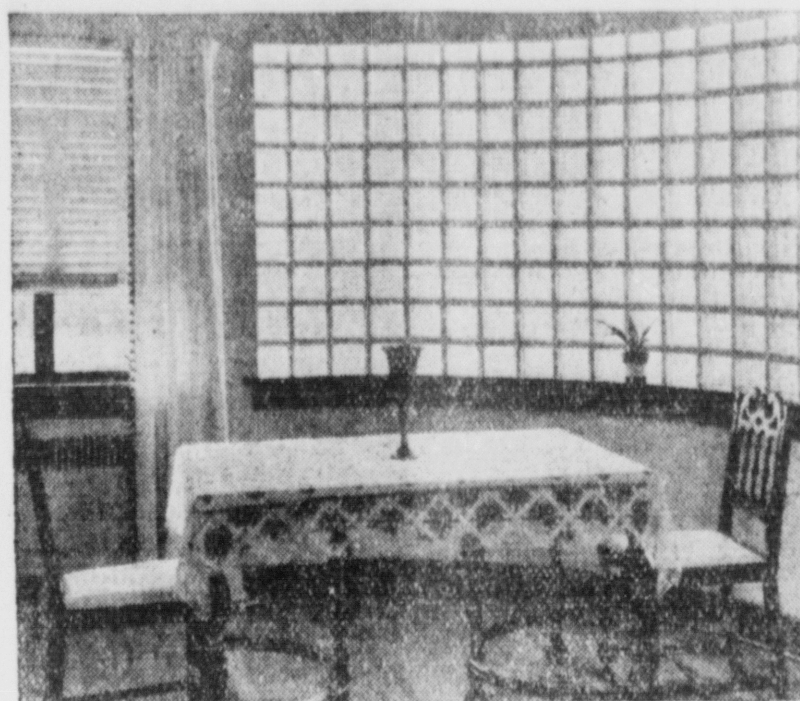

I would not attempt to say what is good and what is not good for the public, but I am sure that everyone will agree that the number of such shows, circuses and carnivals which are decidedly not first rate, far outnumber those that can be considered worthy of patronage.

With the first signs of cotton beginning to open such attractions begin putting up their tents in this community, and there is hardly a week from then until the last boll has been pulled that there is not some such show catering to the people of this community.

I would not hazard a guess as to the amount of money such shows of questionable reputation take out of the community, and I believe I appreciate the amount which such organizations leave in a community, thereby answering about the only argument that can be advanced in justification of their presence.

Warren went to the ropes often against Popalino, who used monkey flips to win their private match.

DAYLIGHTED WALL FOR DINING

Added daylight, privacy and a decorative background with limitless possibilities are provided for the above pictured dining room through the use of insulux glass blocks. They obscure the view of outsiders, hide what might possibly be an unwelcome view (commercial or some dreary old adjacent structure) and gives the housewife a rare opportunity to work out interesting decorative ideas with flowers, draperies or glass shelving anchored to the mortar bond that holds the blocks in place. Being translucent but not transparent, the blocks eliminate the glare of direct sun-

While it would require the whole-hearted co-operation of every agency in the community, and I doubt very much if it will ever be accomplished, I would welcome a situation where it would be possible for the people of this community to have the opportunity of seeing one of the big circuses—such as Sells-Floto, Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey, or some other outstanding circus—and have the pleasure which comes from attending one really high class carnival—one that does not have to depend upon shows of shady character and gambling devices—also have the privilege of enjoying one first class "tent show," during each season.

As it is, shows of this character do not come to Kennett any more, because the "small fry," making a steady play upon the purse strings of the people of this community, keep a large percentage of the people "broke" as far as entertainment is concerned.

However, a stiff license fee, exacted by both the county and the city, would do much to keep out the cheap "fly-by-night" GYP shows, and at the same time would not be prohibitive for the good responsible organizations. They would get enough patronage to justify the expense of including Kennett on their itinerary.

Speaking of the cheap class of carnivals which have come to Kennett during the past few years, I have never been able to understand why no apparent effort is made anywhere in the state to make the carnival concessions cut out "bingo" and other games of chance, which in every sense of the word are as much a form of gambling as "bank night," "screeno" and the other business stimulants that were adopted by legitimate picture shows, which in turn were forced to discontinue the same under a ruling by the Attorney General.

I cannot recall visiting any carnival either in Kennett or elsewhere where there was not one, but several games of chance. "Bingo" in itself is an innocent form of gambling, it's true, but when the cards are passed out to twenty players, they all understand that only one of that number will win a "major" prize, which no one will deny could be purchased for much less than the total amount of money taken in on the twenty cards. If there was no profit the concession operator could not stay in business. What do the losers get? The entertainment derived from placing grains of corn (or markers) on numbers comes from just missing a prize by "one number."

Most people like to play bingo, and so do I, though I cannot remember when I ever won a prize. And certainly I am not condemning anyone for engaging in this pastime if they like it.

But I still say, Bingo is just as much a form of gambling as Bank Nite and Screeno, and I feel certain that should anyone attempt to rent a room on the square and establish a business, the sole purpose of which was to offer to the public the opportunity to play bingo, that it would be impossible to secure a license for the operation of such a business.

The point I am attempting to make is the fact that carnivals are allowed to operate under a different standard of laws than legitimate businesses that are conducted in any community day-in-and-day-out. Custom has made it so, and everyone expects them to continue.

And have you ever heard of a carnival concession, be it a show, a ride, or a refreshment stand, charge a sales tax? If any effort is being made to collect a sales tax from them it is something new. But, I can see no reason why they should not be forced to collect and pay over to the state the tax that every legitimate merchant and amusement operator is required to pay.—Kennett Democrat.

Girl, Shot When Gunmen Used Her as Shield, Dies

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Miss Lucille Summerfield, 18 years old, wounded Thursday night when gunmen used her as a shield during a battle with police in a handbook shop, died today. She had contracted pneumonia from a bullet wound in the chest.

The gunmen carried pistols and a sawed-off shotgun when they entered the handbook where the young dancing teacher had placed a bet. John Bazaula, 33, part owner of the betting establishment, was killed as he sat in the cashier's cage. Police were summoned and one robber surrendered. Another seized the girl, held her in front of him and fired at policemen. The robber and Miss Summerfield were wounded and the third robber was killed when the officers returned the fire.

At the girl's bedside were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Summerfield of Kennett, Mo.

Building a Better State

It is estimated that a fairly adequate system of health insurance which would provide adequate medical and surgical services as well as cash benefits would cost a sum equivalent to approximately $1.50 a week for workers earning $25 a week.

Of this sum three-fourths is necessary for the medical care and the remainder for the cash benefits. The $1.50 should be divided as follows: Employers should pay 87 cents weekly for those of their employees who are receiving wages under $20 a week, 62 cents weekly for those who earn between $20 and $40 a week, and 37 cents weekly for those whose wages exceed $40.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD ASSIST

The employee rates should be as follows: Those earning under $20 weekly should pay only 25 cents a week, those receiving between $20 and $40 a week would pay 50 cents weekly, while those with incomes above $40 a week would pay 75 cents weekly. The Federal Government should pay into the fund an amount equal to 38 cents for each insured worker.

The above distribution of rates is just and fair for a number of reasons: (1) Since a social measure should strive to encourage the payment of higher wages, it is socially sound to arrange the employer's contribution in inverse proportion to the wages he pays. (2) Employers' contributions are justified because an adequate system of health insurance will benefit them greatly through reduced illness and labor turnover, increased efficiency and steadier employment. Moreover, since the excessive illness of lower-paid workers is due largely to insufficient wages, industry should be made to share in the cost of promoting the worker's welfare which is so vital to efficient production. Many employers are already spending considerable sums in promoting the health of the workers.

(3) The employees should contribute because not only are they as a group paying as much or more today for inadequate medical service, but under this plan they as well as their families would receive adequate medical protection and cash benefits to tide them over during illness. (4) The governmental contribution is fully justified as it is not only the government's function to promote the general welfare, but the sums it would spend would actually represent saving on present governmental outlays for the medical care, crime and indigency, which are brought about as a result of neglected illnesses.

Bans Shooting Wild Turkeys or Deer

Jefferson City, Sept. 26.—The State Conservation Commission today declared no hunting of wild turkeys or deer would be permitted in Missouri this year.

The decision was prompted, members of the commission said, by scarcity of both of these species and is an effort to increase their population.

Former regulations permitted killing turkeys during December with a bag limit of one. Killing of buck deer having four or more points on one antler was allowed during three days in October.

The commission also announced today that its field force would be designated "wildlife conservation agents" and would be uniformed.

K. K. Baker Exhibits Many Reminders of the Past

K. K. Baker, Sikeston's amateur archeologist, has on display at the Bone Second-Hand Store on Malone, for the benefit of the Friday and Saturday crowds, a large number of curios and relics, some of them dating back more than two centuries. They are in a show window of the store and in the room adjoining it on the west.

There is, for instance, old coins from 1770 down to the present date. Defense bills issued by both sides of the Civil War, including "shin plaster", Union currency which still has value. One of these is a $100 bill.

An outstanding collection of Indian relics and implements are in evidence. There are 30 pieces of pottery—several pieces of plain vessels, three pieces of image pottery, six small vessels of the medicine man, a small vessel containing war paint and another small vessel with prepared sand.

Smaller objects are countless arrowheads, plummet stones for fish nets, three banner stones (two butterfly and a lizard), several pebble stones to dress hides with, mortar stone and mortar, tomahawk stones, a rare boatstone, and a stone fishhook showing how completely the Indians missed the Iron Age. Large objects are hoes, drills and spades.

From the white man's realm comes swords and scabbards of the Revolutionary period, including flintlock muzzle-loading pistols, long officer's sword, cutlass, Spanish-American War bayonet and a bolo knife of the Philippine natives. There is also a six-barrel pepper-box pistol of 1830 vintage, an old Savate revolver of near the Civil War period, Cooper and Colt cap-and-ball pistols of the War, three little "fucose" pistols that were plover up around here, brass shotgun shells of the 1870's to '90's with their loading tools, bullets from a Civil War skirmish Baker says took place at Bertrand and two Spanish-American Hotchkiss bullets.

The early American home is manifest in a set of fireplace cooking utensils—three kettles with lids and bales, two ovens with lids, an early skillet and three steelyards and weights. An old hand sickle was used by Baker's maternal grandfather, Kenneth McKenzie, near Jackson around 1850. An old stone mason's square of about 1830 belonged to his paternal grandfather.

The original automatic iron is exhibited. It is hollow iron, with a lid at the top to insert live coals and a smoke stack, so that it can go chugging along the ironing board.

There are a number of old dishes and bottles, including one with the cork to be pushed down—a liquid soda bottle. Also, comes, toilet sets and mustache cups old neckties including one made of rattlesnake skin with the rattler on the knot, ancient cigars—and powerful stogies, too, and the key that served the Charleston jail for many years.

Notwithstanding efforts to control insects by widely diverse methods, birds continue to constitute one of the main checks against the reproduction of insects.

One of the roads on the island of Crete was built about 1500 B. C., but is still good enough for an automobile to travel at 60 miles an hour.

Rare Crown Jewels Find Way Into Maw of Nazi Grasp

One of the "psychological subtleties" of Nazi maneuvering is the way in which Frederick T. Birchall, chief of the foreign staff of the New York Times, described, in an article printed recently in The Star, the return to Nurnberg from Vienna of the Austrian crown jewels, priceless insignia of the former Holy Roman empire.

The gold in these imperial baubles which made the unhappy Hapsburg heads lie so uneasily is probably fairly well tarnished by this time. Of late decades the duty of keeping the gold polished was the prerogative of the House of Hapsburg, but for several years none of that house has been allowed anywhere near the crown jewels.

It seems a pity, too, because just one gem from the collection would make life much more tolerable for the last of the Ottos the first of the name established the political entity of the Holy Roman empire in 962 A. D.).

The Holy Roman empire (which was only Roman at the start, and not holy at all) was "tops" as the boast of heraldry and pomp of power during the Dark and Middle Ages of Europe. As Western Europe historically viewed the setup, the Emperor Augustus and his successors, Charlemagne and his successors and Otto and his successors were all links in the chain of the mighty Roman empire, but it wasn't until Otto's coronation that it became actually the Holy Roman empire. Otto made the essential feature of the empire the union of Italy and Germany under one ruler. The empire was dissolved when Napoleon forced the abdication of the Hapsburg Francis (or Franz) II in 1806. Francis was very small potatoes, as emperors go, but he was the last to wear the crown which, along with the twelfth century imperial orb, Charlemagne's sword and a coronation robe, formed the nucleus of the greatest imperial treasure of the western world—greater even than Russia's with its Orlov diamond, or than Britain's with its Koh-i-noor.

SYMBOL FROM MIDDLE AGES

The Austrian imperial crown looks quite as uncomfortable and burdensome a bit of headgear as the other imperial crowns, but is supposed to have greater artistic merit. We fail to find an evaluation of the Austrian crown jewels and royal treasures, but it is safe to say that it runs well into nine figures and must, of course, represent to the Fuehrer something more substantial and tangible than a psychological subtlety. The crown is of eight gold plaques, surmounted by a jeweled arch supporting a cross. Its ornamentation consists of emeralds and sapphires. On the sentimental side its importance to the Nazis seems to be as a symbol of Teutonic overlordship dating back to the Middle Ages. The Nazis would like a rich patina of time on their brand new regime. Possession of these relics of ancient splendor helps in that way.

There were numerous worthies of the Holy Roman empire who added color and glamour to the heavy headpiece. There were the various Louis (including the Pious and the Blind), Charles (the Bald and the Fat), Henrys (the Fowler, the Proud, and the Lion), but long before the long line of succession had passed, weakness threatened the outworn institution of the empire and the last head, Francis's wobbled under the weight of gold and jewels.

The trouble, by that time, seems to have been that the proud Hapsburgs were pursuing a dynastic rather than imperial policy; the honor of the house was, to them, of far more importance than the cohesiveness of an empire. It was expression when the nineteenth century got under way and, at Napoleon's command, Francis II complacently dumped it in the Danube, quite satisfied as long as the Hapsburgs might call themselves "hereditary emperors of Austria," just as Napoleon referred to himself as "emperor of the French." The crown of the Holy Roman empire conferred only vague and transitory power upon its Hapsburg wearers, and certainly no happiness; at best, it wobbled and was about as insecure as the apple on the head of William Tell's son.

The Austrian crown jewels would appropriately be returned to Nurnberg. Nurnberg was

New Gas Kitchen of Glass

THIS is a preview of the future culinary kingdom built in a converted penthouse in midtown New York by the Glass Container Association as a laboratory for research.

Large wall areas have been constructed of glass block, admitting diffused, glareless daylight. Structural glass in marbled jade and emerald lines all the walls not occupied by cabinets and glass block. Rubber tiling covers the floor.

Resplendent in this kitchen is a modern mantle back gas range with six top burners including one of giant size, and a side work top of stainless steel to key with the stainless steel topping the continuous work surface broken only by one counter top of heat and cold-proof glass for pastry rolling.

the residence of the ancient German kings. With its architecture generally unchanged since the Renaissance, it has always been considered the German city par excellence. The artists Durer and Hans Sachs lived in Nurnberg and in the sixteenth century it was the home of German culture—not Kultur, which, in a subsequent century, expressed something vastly different. But, because it is an ancient German city, historically opulent and proud, the Fuehrer has made it the shrine of Naziism. Vienna (or Wien) is now merely the principal city of the province of Austria, with dreary Hapsburg guests flitting about the Hofburg.

Definitely, the jewels are safer at Nurnberg. Seventeen or eighteen years ago, when the tattered survivors of the Western European institution of royalty were seeking sanctuary, chiefly in Switzerland, but also in Paris and London, they usually seized as many dynastic baubles as they could lay hands on, with the pawnshop in view. In 1921 it was stated—without fear of contradiction, because no one could possibly establish the true figure—that jewels worth 800 million dollars had been pawned by members of royal houses since 1911 in Switzerland alone.

There was an engaging story to the effect that when Charles, the last of the Hapsburgs, abdicated in 1918, he stuffed a valise or two with a choice assortment of the jeweled regalia of Austria and headed for Switzerland, where he "hooked" it at a neat figure, but one far below its actual value.

In Austria the imperial crown and other regalia were always kept in the vaults of the imperial household and were considered, traditionally, the property of the imperial family. The ownership question led subsequently to suit for possession brought by the new republican government of Austria against Charles. It is not clear how the case was settled, but, at all events, the important items in the collection remained in Vienna. These included the crown, which is said to have cost—in 1807, when it was fabricated—the equivalent of $700,000, a stupendous outlay for that period. Each of the gold plaques forming the crown was hemmed with pearls, and the jeweled hoop over the crown supported the cross which held an enormous uncut sapphire. The imperial orb of apple (which balanced the scepter in the other hand) was proportionately rich in sparklers, as was the scepter itself.

Among the Austrian imperial jewelry were private insignia of various orders, some of them of enormous value—heraldic robes with seams and stitches of gold, a multitude of watches and clocks, vases, bowls, dishes, baptismal founts, etc., etc., museum pieces, all of them. The list is monotonous, but there was, for instance, a Golden Fleece cross studded with diamonds and stopped with the famous Frankfurt solitaire, 42½ carats, for which the Emperor Francis I paid 28,000 louis d'or in 1764—the louis d'or then being valued at about $5. There was a rose necklace, thirteen roses made of diamonds; a 266-carat diamond corsage—and other trifles.

There was, for example, the famous "Necklace of Tears," a string of tear-shaped pearls, worn by the unhappy Empress Elizabeth, mother of the Crown Prince Rudolph, perhaps the most eminent royal suicide; and the glorious 233-carat Florentine, a diamond once owned by Charles the Hardy of Burgundy, which subsequently came into the possession of Francis of Lorraine, who gave it to Maria Theresa when he married her, along with Lorraine. Jewels figured largely in the purchase price of kingdoms at one time.

About ten years ago two persons in Spanish Morocco were arrested for attempting to sell an exquisite necklace which, they said, was from the Austrian royal collection and had once adorned the neck of Maria Theresa. In fact they showed an authentic portrait of the empress wearing, apparently, the same necklace. The gems in the necklace were real, and everything seemed on the "up and up" until a former exchequer of the imperial family said that none of the treasures (which would naturally have included Maria Theresa's necklace) was peddled intact; that all of the jewels had been removed from their settings.

He had a list of all of the empress's jewelry, including the "Chateau-Garniture," a lace piece studded with 800 diamonds, the Frankfurt solitaire, a 380-diamond corsage, a 494-diamond necklace, etc., but he thought, if any such necklace as the one described had been produced, it must have been a forgery perpetrated by some French jeweler, or it might, of course, have been for generations in the possession of one of the Austrian archdukes—and, after all, the wanderings of former Austrian archdukes, wherever they were, were a little difficult to trace. At all events, he said—or intimated—the necklace was not among the treasures scooped up by Charles, who took only the contents of cases No. 12 and No. 13. Moreover, he said, those trinkets were not taken to Switzerland by Charles himself, but were entrusted by him to Count Berchtold, who, in turn, entrusted them to a certain baron of the royal entourage, who finally disposed of them. It seems, according to this version, that the baron got such a "shoddy" price for the jewels that the aforesaid lawsuit resulted.

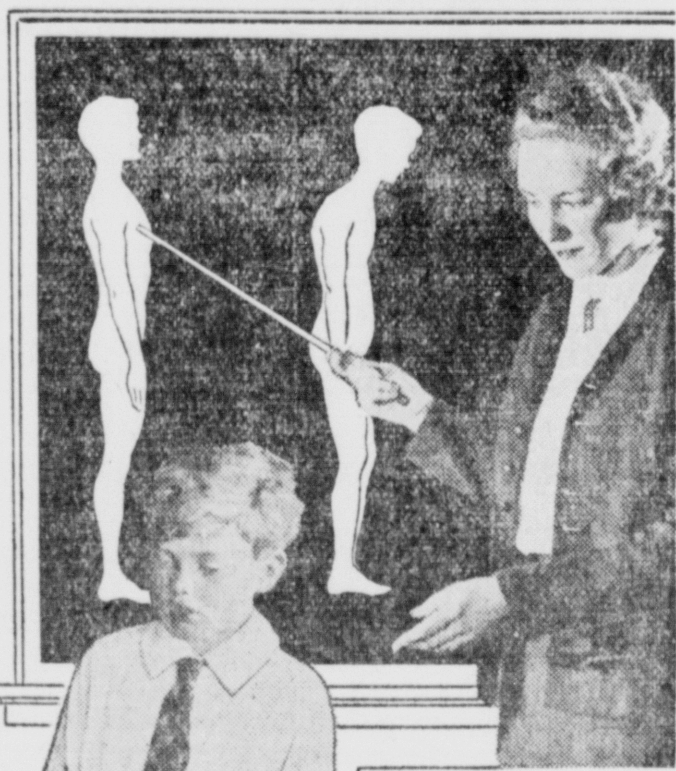

The point, of course, is that, as long as the contents of only two

See America First... Last...

and Always

Yes, see America for what it really is—better than a promised land.

To our forefathers it was just a plain land of promise with no trimmings. The merciless frontier drove hard bargains... demanded privations and daring in exchange for day-to-day existence. But they were thankful and confident.

Today vast oceans still guard our freedom. We have the Earth's greatest storehouse of natural resources. Comforts and conveniences abound. Best of all, we see every promise of a future more generous still. For America? Yes! But especially for all those with the spirit of America's pioneers.

Rev. Milby is widely known in the denomination of the Church of the Nazarene as a successful pastor and has conducted revival meetings in many states of the Union. Before entering the ministry, he served as an official of the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet.

Christian Church

Sunday is Promotion Day at the Christian Church. A fine group of young people are to be promoted. A mixed class for High School young people has been organized. All young people of that age not in other Bible schools are invited to become charter members of this class.

Following the communion service, the pastor will speak on "A Challenge to Youth." Christian Endeavor services 6:30 p. m. with Rodney Sutterfield, leader. Junior Endeavor at the same time with Mrs. J. L. Sutterfield, superintendent.

Evangelistic services 7:30 p. m. Theme, "The European Crisis and Christianity."

Mid-week services Wednesday evening followed by choir practice. R. S. Rains, minister.

Northern Lights

Northern lights, that phenomena of the polar regions known also as the aurora borealis, was visible in the skies at Sikeston Tuesday, having a pale red hue through which cut white streamers at intervals, such as the beam of a spotlight. It was visible for upwards of 15 minutes or a half-hour and had its deepest density of color slightly to the northwest. Its red tinge resembled the reflection left in the sky by a huge fire.

Neighbor Day A Galaxy of Events

Neighbor Day, Oct. 6, at Benton, under the auspices of the Scott County Farm Bureau, will consist of large array of events—agricultural displays, merchants' and manufacturers' booths, baseball and softball games, band concerts, numerous contests, queen crowning, entertainment by KMOX radio artists, boxing, singing, an auto show, an exhibition by a negro drum and bugle corps, a queen's ball and free acts by a circus troupe.

One of the softball games will be between the Sikeston girls and Cape Girardeau girls.

Miss Edna Fowler of the Diehlstedt High School will be crowned queen. One of her attendants will be Miss Marietta Bloomfield of Sikeston.

The program opens at 9 a. m. and will continue far into the night.

Baptist Church

Special attention is called to the change in the hours of the services.

Rev. E. W. Milner, Pastor.

Presbyterian Church

A Rally Day program will be presented at the nine o'clock hour at the Presbyterian Church Sunday, which will be followed by the regular session of Sunday School.

The Rally Day topic is: "Taught of the Lord." The superintendent, Elmer Poage, will have charge. The assistant superintendent, and several of the teachers will also take part. The pastor will give a short talk on "The Importance of Being Taught of the Lord." The Sunday School teachers and officers will be called upon to rededicate themselves to the great task of religious leadership. A special Rally Day offering will be taken for Sunday School extension in needed areas in the South.

At the evening hour, 7:30, the pastor will speak on "The Work of the Holy Spirit."

D. D. Ellis, minister.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors, Rev. Transue and the church, for the kindness and sympathy shown to us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother Anna Ryan. We also express our appreciation to those who sent flowers and to each one who assisted in any way.

Boyd Ryan and family.

P.-T. A. Co-operating In Pet Parade

The Parent-Teacher Association is co-operating in the pet parade this Friday, at 2 p. m., and expects approximately 1500 children 12 years old and under to participate. Children with or without pets and costumes may enter and each will receive a souvenir. They are to be at South Grade School at 1:30 p. m. Marching will be down Malone to Kingshighway, then to Center, then to Stoddard and back to the school. Outside schools have been invited. Boy Scouts will march with younger children. Prizes of $1 and 50 cents will be awarded for costumes, most unusual pet, largest pet, largest pet excluding horses, and smallest pet.

Stark for Doubling Pay of Legislators

Jefferson City, Sept. 26.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark will give his personal aid to a campaign to boost the pay of State Legislators.

Before leaving for the Governors' conference in Oklahoma City today, the executive announced he would serve on a committee to urge adoption of Amendment No. 1 in the November election. The amendment would increase legislative pay from $5 daily for the first 70 days to $10 daily for the first 120 days of a session, and from $1 to $3 thereafter.

On the Campaign Committee with Stark will be John G. Christy, Speaker of the House, and State Senator Ed Barbour of Springfield, chairman of the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The committee said the most effective campaign could be organized through the efforts of former Legislators and consequently asked J. R. Baker of Fulton, Frank Hollingsworth of Mexico and E. A. Dunsing of Jefferson City to call former members into a conference here soon.

INFANT OF LA FORGE COUPLE SUCCUMBS

Bobby Gene Plunk, 7-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Plunk of La Forge, died at 11 o'clock Monday night of pneumonia. Services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon, and burial with Elise service was at Adamsville, Tenn. Besides the parents, the child is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Plunk, of La Forge, and brothers and sisters.

Jr. Progress Club Hears Book Review

The first fall meeting of the Junior Progress Club was held Monday night at the home of Miss Jewell Mouser. The president of the club, Miss Edna Pinnell, presided at the business session, at which time Miss Marie Marshall was elected secretary to replace Mrs. L. M. Stanley, who resigned the office.

The program, a review of the book "Cleopatra" by Emil Ludwig, was given by Mrs. M. M. Beck, guest speaker. A series of interesting talks on "Building and Furnishing a Home" will be given by club members on future programs.

The next meeting will be held in the library building when the Club's gift to the library, a world globe, will be presented to the committee. A covered dish supper will precede the regular meeting.

Last Speaker Chosen For Doctrinal Mission

The last speaker, Rev. Geo. O. Nichols of Poplar Bluff, has been secured for the Presbyterian Doctrinal Mission to be held Oct. 3 to 7 here. His subject will be "Sin and Salvation." Special music will be furnished on certain nights by Paul Slinkard's orchestra, by a High School quartet and Mr. Gaty of Charleston will sing with Mrs. Moffat Latimer at the piano. The dates each evening are Oct. 3 to 7, inclusive.
